DEDICATION

We have reached a milestone in our lives. Coming this far was not easy. It is with feelings of accomplishment and pride that we graduate. Now we must look forward to the next phase of our career. As we enter further into our lives, we will remember those who have inspired us to excel, pulled us up when we were down, and never let us give up no matter how tough the going got. It is with love in our hearts and souls that we dedicate our yearbook to the ones who have influenced us the most, our parents and our guidance counselors. They have struggled to make us succeed, and what we've accomplished will make us forever grateful for their struggles. To all the parents and guidance counselors of the 1980 graduates, thank you for all the knowledge and wisdom you have given us. Our memories of you will always linger on.

The Graduating Seniors of 1980

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

President — Bryant Wilder Vice-President — Theresa Jenkins
Secretary — Linda Williams

SENIOR CLASS PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

We are high school graduates. We have attained our primary goal. It is joy and triumph. Yet, it is pain and anxiety; the pain of separation, the anxiety of facing the unknown. We now go our separate ways; we leave behind our companions, our classmates, our close friends. For many of us graduation means leaving familiar, supportive surroundings and heading towards a "new" city or state. To enter a strange environment — whether physical or merely mental — is the route that we must take in order to achieve our next objectives — whether they are to expand our knowledge through college education, to enter directly into the world of work or to join one of the military services.

Not only are we facing the unknown. We are, as young adults, entering a world that is facing many threats and tensions. Our nation — as most nations — confronts an energy crisis, inflation, and the threat of nuclear war. These threats necessarily are more serious to us the day after graduation than the day before as we now — rapidly becoming the ones who shall have to cope with the problems, seek the solutions. Yet, I am confident that we, and I mean, literally we the graduates of Morris can work effectively towards at least the hope of a more secure, less threatening future.

I can best explain my confidence by use of allegory or parable. I think of our years at Morris in this way: When we arrived here we were seedlings, but no one knew of what. Would we flower? Would we be destructive weeds? Willows? Oaks? Given a fertile environment, this school and skilled gardeners, our teachers and counselors, we have begun to blossom into a garden of variegated flowers and trees, each with its special quality and beauty. And, as we are "transplanted" to different areas, we will take our individual beauty with us. But, we are not really flowers; we are people. And, our beauty lies in the abilities we have developed here, at Morris, in our determination to apply them to alleviate and eliminate the problems we shall encounter. We will, as the willows, bend and adjust to the temperamental winds of rapidly changing times. We will not be the stubborn oaks that fall. I believe that we can accomplish, achieve, and contribute.

As our modern, technological nation reaches past the stars into galaxies in the universe yet unknown, I am confident that we shall be among those who have contributed towards making that future – any future – feasible. For, we are the hybrid of poverty and hope. We have nowhere to reach but up. We have come this far and are proud of our accomplishment. I can only hope that we will continue to strive for our goals, to reach for our stars. We may yet obtain them. If not, we will have been touched by their light.

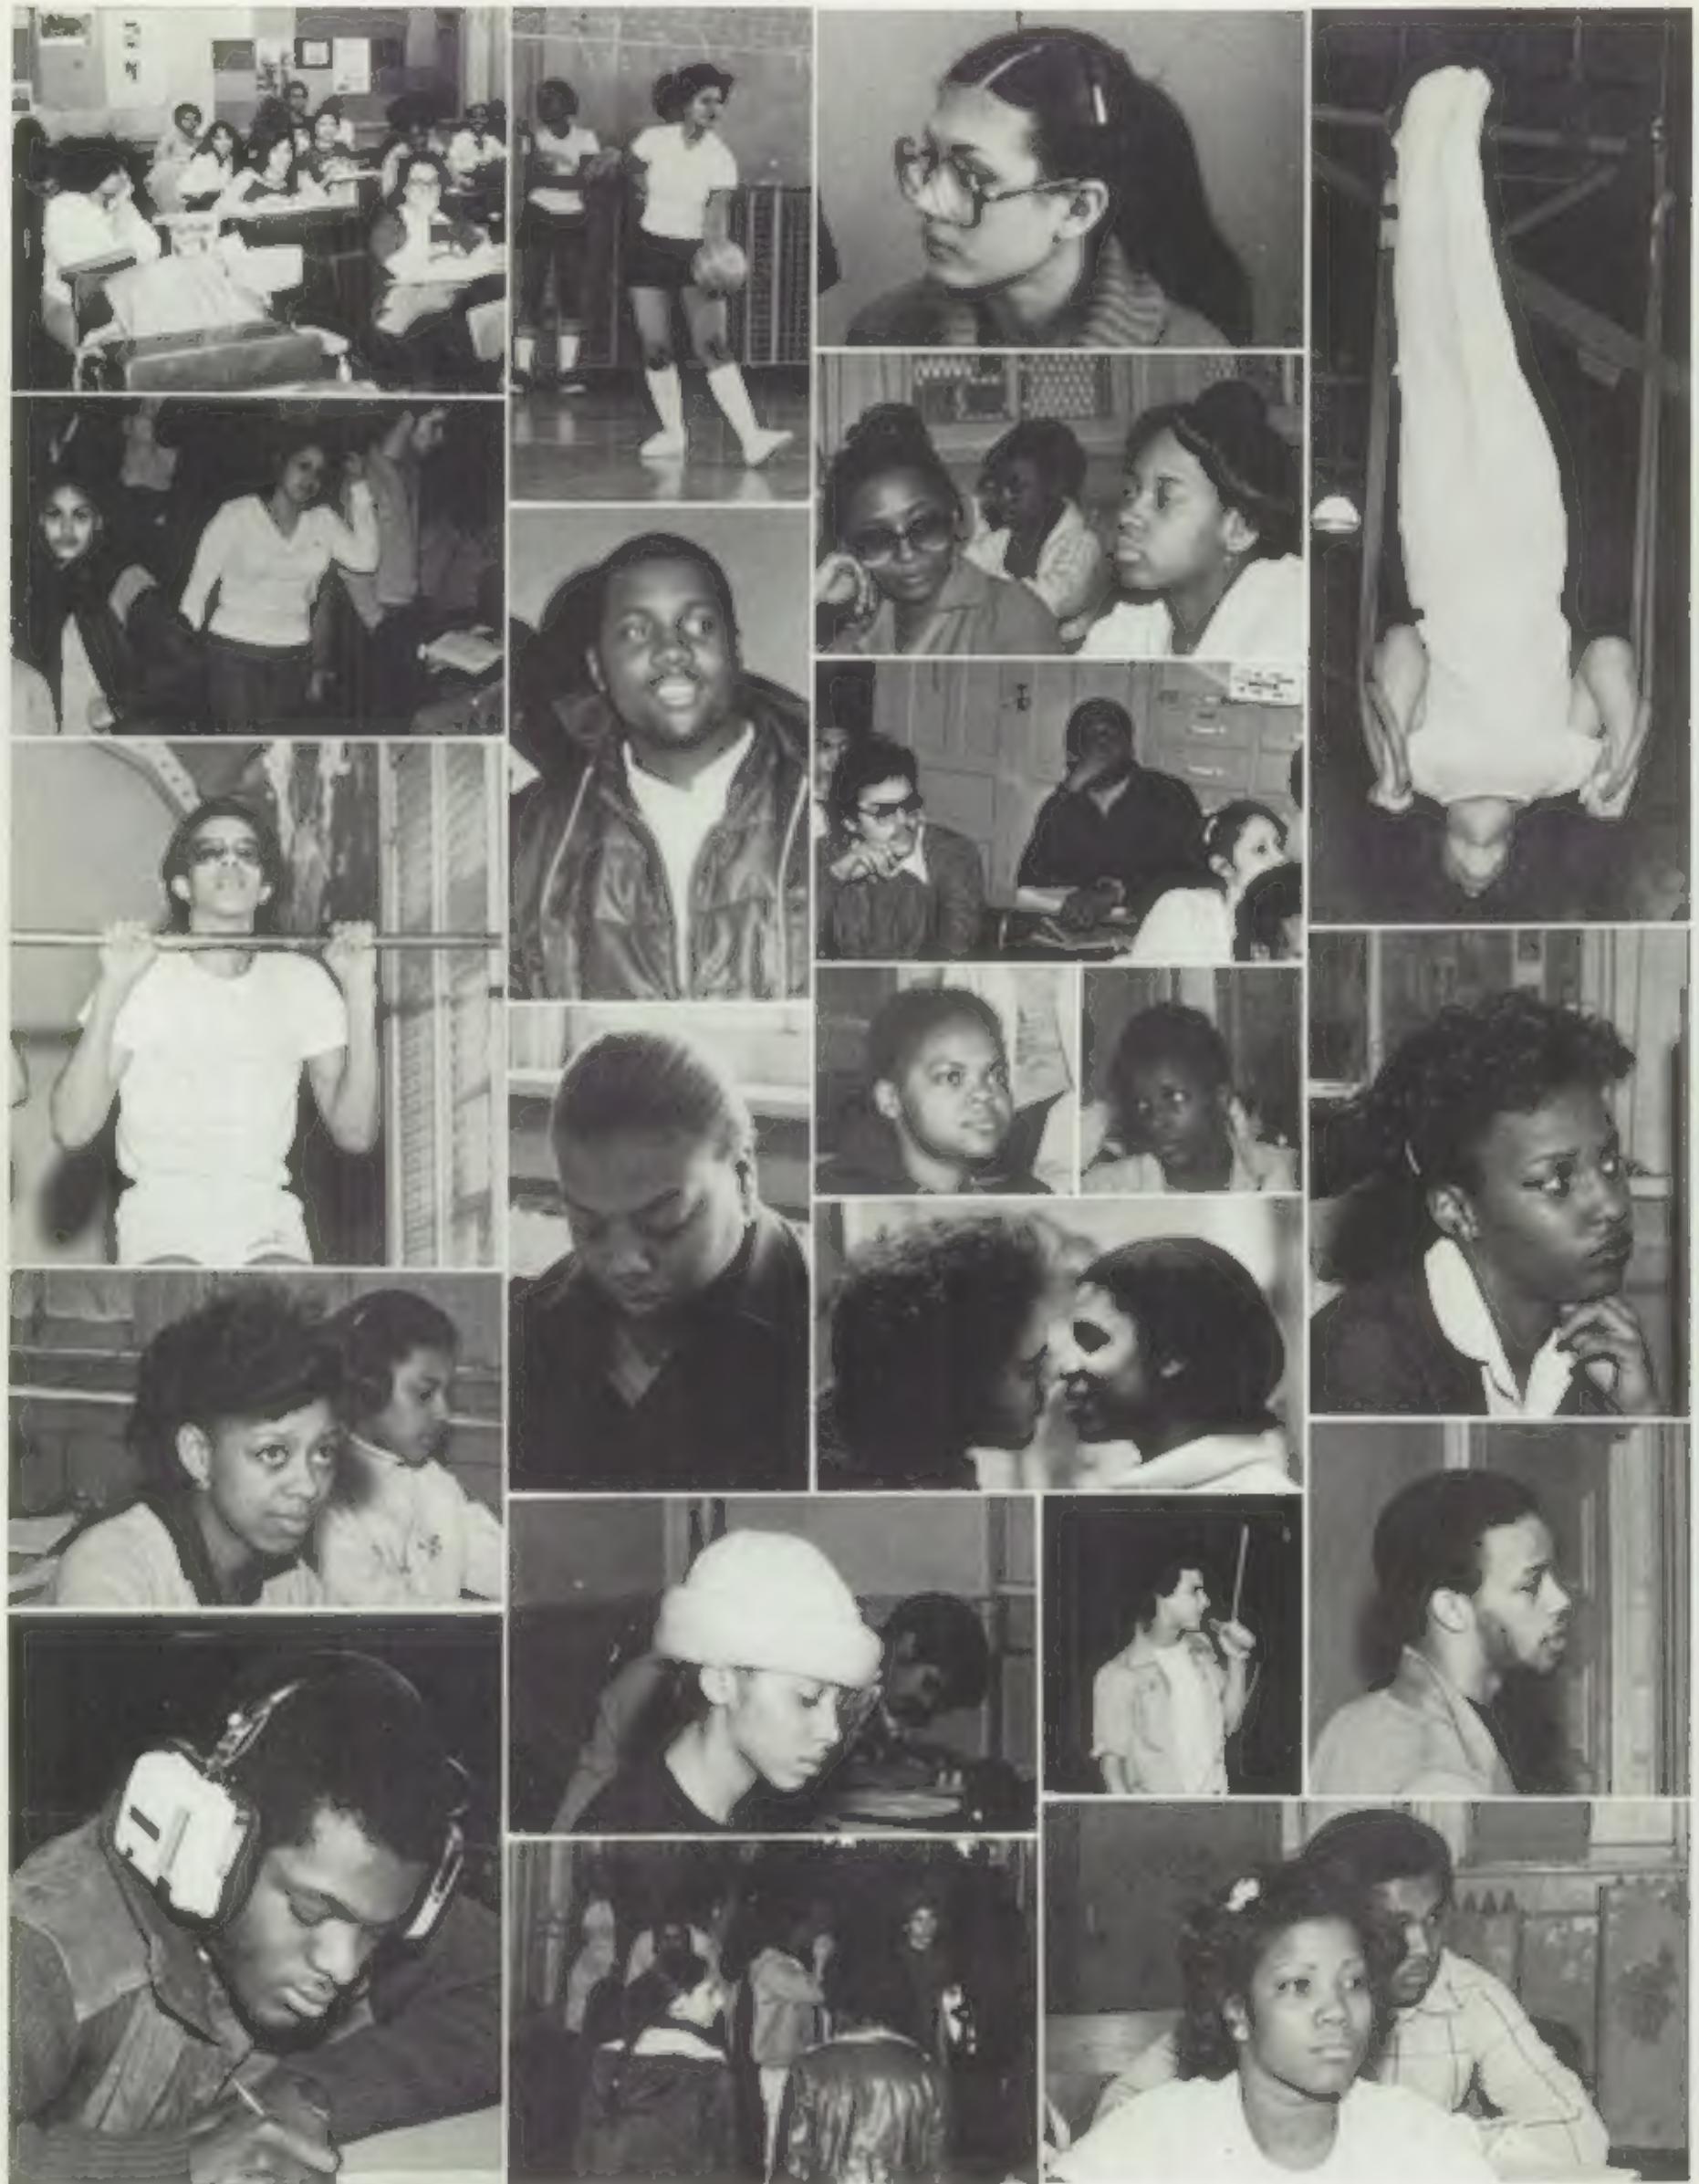

Wherever we go, be it college, the armed forces, or in search of careers, we will enlighten the others. We are the products of a loving, protecting environment that has sustained both our intellectual and personal growth. Thus, all of the experiences we encounter will not only broaden our personalities, but our perceptions of life. We shall become truly educated and useful individuals who will enhance the society in which we live.

Like the proverbial thousand mile journey that begins with one, single step, our has begun. We have moved forward, graduation our first step. Congratulations! And my sincerest wishes for success in all of your future endeavors.

Principal's Message for 1980 Year Book

Dear Morris High School Graduate of 1980,

At some point in the future you will find yourself sitting down with other Morris High School graduates and long time friends to reminisce about the years you spent in high school.

You will find that you will not recall all of the names and facts related to incidents which today, may seem so important. What you will remember will be the highlights of the last few years. Such events as the senior trip, your first "real love", the prom, that "Special" game, and your favorite class will remain with you forever.

If you speak long enough, you will no doubt begin to remember many of the world events which took place during those same years. Will you ever forget the hostage situation in Iran, the Three Mile Island incident, the visit of Pope Paul II, the ERA movement or the gas lines?

Other, yet unresolved problems may come to mind such as Inflation and the Energy Crisis because they too will have had an impact on your life. By then, members of your generation will be the decision makers. You and your contemporaries will be grappling with these critical issues.

I am sure that you will be able to face these and any other problems awaiting you because of the strong values and basic education which the staff of Morris High School has helped to instill in you.

You have the fundamentals to make success possible. I wish you good luck and God's speed.

Sincerely,
Frances Vatz

A MOTHER'S LOVE IS

A mother's love is
A love that is shared
And which can never be paired

A mother's love is
Showing that she cares,
When you are in tears

A mother's love is
When she takes the shame,
Because she knows you are to blame

A mother's love is
Getting you to stay
When you try to run away

A mother's love is
Is helping you,
When you don't know what to do

A mother's love is
Something that is cherished
And should never be perished

A mother's love is
When she's passed away,
You'll still feel loved the same old way

A MOTHER'S LOVE IS WONDERFUL!!!

By Cathy Johnson of class 12-62
Dedicated to my mother who's love will always be remembered

When we walk down the aisle.
Strolling through the halls.
Time to bug out.
Give me another 90
We made it to Senior Year.
For the fun we had together.
Between going to class and cutting.
If you try hard enough.
I'm going to graduate.
With the diploma in my hand.
For the teacher who failed me.
Time to go to class.
For not leaving Morris sooner.
Cutting another class.
Memories never forgotten.
